Introduction

Over the years, SMPS has analyzed the practice of professional services marketing to determine the knowledge and skills most critical. From this exercise, six Domains of Practice were developed. From research and planning to client development and promotional activities, the domains help you and your firm prepare for what's now—and what's next—in A/E/C marketing and business development.

The SMPS Domains of Practice denote the essential tasks and knowledge areas associated with the profession of professional services marketing. The content outline, including linkages with knowledge areas, is provided within each domain.
